

April 25, 2012

LEPC Excerpt

Jamie Schrammel presented a Powerpoint overview on Chemical Suicide (Detergent Suicide or the new term is Hazmat Suicide). He reported information was readily available on the internet. There have been 3,000 incidents since 2007. Even though 90% of incidents have signs attached to the cars, 80% of responders still get hurt. In the U.S. there were three incidents in 2008; and 27 in 2011 in 20 states including New York State. He distributed two informational handouts, which are on file with the minutes.

Amy Drexel, LEPC Chair report

- Website was updated
- Tier II changes were reported
- NIMS and ICS training has continued